

ABSTRACT

A non-return valve comprising a valve member having a circumferential face and a channel having a mouth on either side thereof, the mouth at one end of the channel being sealable by a valve element in the form of a O-ring and located in a groove sealed by the valve member, the groove having circumferential edges provided on parts that are steplessly adjustable and fixable irrelative to each other.